Former NRL star Todd Carney is clever and shy, Mayor Val Schier has communication problems, and fallen business tycoon Tom Hedley will soon be spiritual, a renowned face reader says.

Melbourne feng shui master Jodi Brunner yesterday left Cairns after a five-day visit to read the destiny of some private clients.

Before she left, The Weekend Post provided Ms Brunner with images of Carney, Cr Schier and Mr Hedley – she was not told who they were and did no research on her topics.

Ms Brunner, who has been studying faces for 15 years, gave very accurate readings for three of the Far North's best-known people – and some weird ones, too.

"He's got a very entrepreneurial face shape, he's very clever and as he gets older, he could become more spiritual, maybe religious," she said of Hedley.

"He takes a long time to make a decision, especially when it involves money.

"He's got a line going down the left side of his mouth going down to his jaw which indicates money can go in and out."

Ms Brunner said Carney was clever and shy and could be a good captain but questioned his temperament.

"Once he does something he can do it well, he's clever and shy," she said.

"He would be quite good as a captain, but whether he's temperamental, I don't know.

"His nose is quite good for money, the nose represents wealth, he has to keep away from shonky business."

Ms Brunner was more critical of Cr Schier, saying the Mayor could be a good leader if she had better communication skills.

"I think she could be a good leader, but she could get along better with people if her eyebrows were darker. Eyebrows represent communication with peers," she said.

Face book: Prominent Far Northerners Todd Carney, Val Schier and Tom Hedley.
